

This is an outrage, and clearly unethical. Regardless of people's support for their party, campaigns should never go this far. It would be equal to Michael Moore allowing an abundance of major tv networks to air his film, Fahrenheit 911, which would result in an outraged Bush administration. In fact, I'm not even sure that it would happen, even upon Moore's consent, so why is this allowed to happen? Ridiculous.